Fire at AIIMS, some patients evacuated

Virology unit gutted, samples destroyed

AGENCIES New Delhi

A fire broke out at the teaching block of the AIIMS here on Saturday, destroying samples and medical reports and forcing evacuation of some patients, though no one was injured, officials said.

Patients from some floors of the AB ward, close to the Microbiology department where the blaze started at around 5 pm, were evacuated along with those in operation theatres above it as the smoke spread, they said, adding the fire was doused within two hours.

A Delhi Fire Services Department (DFS) official said 22 fire tenders were rushed to the site after they received a call. The Microbiology department's virology unit on the second floor of the teaching block has been completely gutted, sources said.

Smoke billows out as fire personnel douse fire which broke out at teaching block of All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) in New Delhi, on Saturday PTI

Arun Jaitley is admitted at the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) of the cardio-neuro centre, housed in a different building in the complex. Several prominent leaders have been visiting the hospital for the past few days to enquire about his health.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal tweeted, "I appeal to everyone to maintain calm and allow the Fire Services personnel to do their work."

A fire department official said there was no casualty in the blaze. Dark plumes of smoke and flames were seen billowing out from the affected building of the premier health institute.

Sources said the fire spread to the Emergency Lab in the department of Lab Medicine, which is adjacent to the Microbiology department's virology unit, where electricity work was going on for some time and cable and wire being used were kept, they said.

The fire moved downward to the first floor — and also upward to the third and the fourth floor of the building, they said.

Some parts of the fifth floor was also affected, they added. "The fire was brought under control within two hours," said a fire department official.

Patients' samples come to the virology unit and Lab Medicine department for testing. Sources said it is suspected that a large number of samples and patient records have been destroyed as the virology unit has been completely gutted.

However, there was no casualties and the cooling process is underway, a fire department official said.

Expelled Kerala nun moves Vatican against Congregation's decision

AGENCIES Kochi

A Kerala nun Saturday said she has filed an appeal before the Vatican against Franciscan Clarist Congregation's decision to expel her from it even as the congregation tightened its stance by issuing a letter to the her elderly mother to take her back home.

Sister Lucy Kalappura, who took part in a protest against former bishop of Jalandhar diocese in connection with a rape case was expelled by the Franciscan Clarist Congregation early this month for 'failing to give a satisfactory explanation' for her lifestyle "in violation of the proper law of the FCC."

"I have filed an appeal. An email was sent to Vatican yesterday (Friday). I have also sent via post today (Saturday) to Vatican as well as their representatives in New Delhi," the expelled nun told reporters at Wayanad RPT Wayanad.

The nun said the Congregation has sent a letter to her mother on August 10 asking her to take her daughter back to home from the convent in Karackamala (in Wayanad). In her letter to the nun's mother dated August 10, FCC's Provincial Superior in Mananthavady said the nun should leave the convent if she failed to make "recourse against the decree" within 10 days from the day on which she receives the communication.

Sister Kalappura said legally the congregation could not ask her to leave the convent since she has filed the appeal challenging its decision. The Congregation had accused sister Lucy Kalappura of publishing poems, purchasing a car and taking part in a protest against a rape accused former bishop of Jalandhar diocese.

SIT files chargesheet in Kalburgi case

AGENCIES Bengaluru

Ganesh Miskin, the hitman allegedly involved in the killing of journalist Gauri Lankesh, had also shot litterateur and researcher Dr M M Kalburgi dead in August 2015, according to the special investigation team (SIT).

SIT, probing the case, stated this in a charge sheet it filed in the district court of Hubballi-Dharwad on Saturday. The other accused in the case were Amol Kale, Praveen Prakash Chatur, Vasudev Bhagavan Suryavamshi, Sharad Kalaskar and Amith Ramchandra Baddi, the SIT said in a press release. The gang was allegedly inspired by a book 'Kshatra Dharma Sadhana' brought out by the Sanatan Sanstha, a Hindu extremist group, the SIT said. The reason behind killing Dr Kalburgi, said the SIT, was his observations while delivering a keynote address during a discussion on June 9, 2014 under the topic "Towards a superstition-free society - A debate on enactment of Karnataka Prevention of Superstitious Practices Bill, 2013 at Vigyan Bhavan in Bengaluru.

Law minister for speedy bail to women undertrial prisoners

AGENCIES Nagpur

A woman who has spent one fourth of the period of the maximum sentence for the offence she is charged with as undertrial prisoner should be released immediately, Union Law Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad suggested on Saturday.

The minister was speaking before a gathering of judges and lawyers at the inauguration of 17th all India meet of the State Legal Services Authorities here. "I have certain suggestions to give on this whole bail provisions for undertrials," Prasad said, referring to section 436-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Under 436-A, if an undertrial has been in prison for half the period of the maximum sentence for the offence, he or she must be released on bond. It also provides for review committees headed by district judges to examine such cases where undertrials are languishing in jail.

"The review committee needs to work more effectively. There is need to further reinforce the implementation of this provision," Prasad said, adding that in 50 per cent of cases, the accused spends entire period of sentence for the offence as undertrial prisoner.

"I would recommend that if a woman prisoner has spent 25 per cent of her sentence period as a trial prisoner, she should be immediately released," he added.

He also expressed concern about the number of pending criminal appeals, seeking fast-track hearing of cases which are pending for ten years or more.

Hailing the country's legal system, the law minister said Indian courts, led by the Supreme Court, reinforced the constitutional values, which played a great role in making India what it is today.

The world looks upto India and follows some of the initiatives the country has taken, Prasad added. "Last year I had gone to the Bahamas for Commonwealth conference. I talked about Digital India programmes...and all the African countries' law ministers came to me to know about it," he said.

Free ride to metro rail commuters, as server develops glitch

AGENCIES Chennai

Hit by a malfunction in its fare collection system for about two and half hours on Saturday morning, Chennai Metro Rail allowed commuters to use the services free of cost without tickets and smart cards.

When passengers could not be issued tokens (tickets) after fare collection due to the glitch, the authorities allowed passengers to proceed with their onward journey sans the usual tickets or smart cards.

"First, it was thought that the malfunction was only in one station. When we realised it has affected the system in all other stations as well, the passengers were allowed to use the services without tickets," a Metro Rail official said.

For sometime after the glitch was detected, paper tickets were issued and later it was dispensed with, he added. Passengers said they welcomed the initiative, which has avoided inconvenience.

The malfunction has since been rectified and commuters should use tokens and smartcards for access, the official said.

Enough is enough, says Priyanka after Sengar's poster with Modi

AGENCIES New Delhi

Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Saturday slammed the BJP after a full page advertisement was published in the local edition of a vernacular daily in Uttar Pradesh's Unnao on Independence Day, featuring Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Kuldeep Sengar, the rape-accused former BJP leader. "Enough is enough," the Congress General Secretary tweeted, asking whether the top BJP leaders will comment as Sengar's photo was displayed along with theirs.

"CBI submitted the report. Supreme Court has also reprimanded but BJP people still have rape accused Kuldeep Singh Sengar in their hearts. His photo is there with big leaders of BJP. Will they comment?" Priyanka Gandhi tweeted, adding #EnoughIsEnough.

The poster also features Home Minister Amit Shah and Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

However, the poster was defended by the chairman of the Unga Nagar Panchayat, who had paid for the advertisement. "He is MLA of our area. That is why his photo is there. Till the time he is our MLA his photo can be put," Anuj Kumar Dixit was quoted by a news agency.

Anuj Kumar Dixit, who was reportedly inducted into the BJP by Kuldeep Sengar, denied his ad, which also featured Kuldeep Sengar's wife, Sangeeta Sengar, Chairwoman of the Zila Panchayat, had any links with political parties.

BJP spokesperson Shalabhmani Tripathi has denied party links to the poster.

"It might have been someone's personal choice to give Sengar's photograph. It has nothing to do with the party or the state government. We have no sympathy for Sengar," he told news agency PTI. Kuldeep Sengar had been expelled by the BJP earlier this month, amid criticism the party had only acted after concerted outrage against earlier inaction.
